The twelfth edition of LaingBuisson’s industry report on the UK health cover market delivers the latest market intelligence and freshest market data on the three core health cover markets (including 2014 figures); private medical (comprising private medical insurance and self-insured medical expenses), health cash, and dental benefits. These areas have been exclusively, and comprehensively, surveyed by LaingBuisson in order to provide the most up to date picture of this health spending environment. This year’s data also incorporates some notable recent revisions in each cover market which reflects new information and approaches in LaingBuisson’s estimation.

Recent trends point to a challenging period for some areas of health cover, though increasing popularity for other customer segments. There has been a lack of growth for private medical cover despite record levels of employment, and good growth in the economy. At the same time more employers are embracing health cash plans, attracted by a low-cost health cover product which can be offered widely across employees. And dental insurance is also proving popular with employers and individuals, growing year on year.

Upward price pressure from higher Insurance Premium Tax (IPT) looms on the horizon and private medical cover, in particular, could face a difficult 12 months ahead. LaingBuisson’s new report assesses future prospects, providing scenario projections (optimistic, neutral and pessimistic) and, continuing the analytical thread of recent editions of this title, we present exclusive market estimates for SME and large corporate private medical cover business.

Three-year data projections (2015-2017) for key demand statistics remain a key element of this report. As do latest structural changes in the market place with up to date market share estimates, distribution trends, and product innovation reported across all the three markets where available. Also in this edition as are statistics on corporate (group) demand for health cash plans and dental cover – providing a breakdown of ‘employer paid’ and ‘employee paid’ group business.

NEW this year is additional fresh and comprehensive data on corporate group dental insurance not seen before.

This in depth business report is essential reading for all organisations involved in the provision of health insurance, as well as healthcare companies looking to develop or improve their relationships with insurers.
