- C-suite audience
- Launch of updated LaingBuisson sector report
- Unique market forecasts
- High quality, expert speakers
- Topical agenda with forum debates
- Exclusive delegate offers

No health without mental health is now more than ever government policy in a market where the NHS increasingly partners with the not for profit and independent sector in delivering care.

This half day seminar will also see William Laing launch LaingBuisson's Mental Health Market Report as we address some of the key questions for the sector:

- Fee Levels (and how these remain under pressure)
- Moratorium on new capacity (and the impact this has on planning capacity in the optimal way)
- Shift to out of hospital care (and whether lower cost residential settings are always appropriate – is it clinically as opposed to financially justified)
- The NHS partnering with the independent sector (how this can be improved, and is there a trend to higher acuity being outsourced)

Delegates attending the seminar will also receive a 10% discount on purchases of LaingBuisson's definitive sector report on the Mental Health market made on the day.

What our delegates have said

"To be honest, I can't think of any constructive feedback to give. The quality of catering at the venue, the speakers, the communication before the event - all were very good. It seemed a reasonably expensive event but it was worthwhile. In fact, it being quite small seemed to add to the experience some how. Speaking to other delegates it was well received all round."

"Overall a high quality conference, well chaired in a good venue. Thank you."

"There was something useful in all of the sessions. The short presentations from a varied pool were engaging and informative - good to hear differing viewpoints and experiences."
